Ji-woon Kim | South Korea 1998 | 110 min | Korean with English subtitles

A family opens a mountain inn where their first guest commits suicide. Suddenly horrible fates begin to befall all their guests.

"The Quiet Family is a sly, genuinely anarchic comedy of escalating absurdity." (Variety)

"The Quiet Family is an excellent film, an amusing and engaging black comedy that should appeal not only to fans of Asian cinema but to viewers in general." (Beyond Hollywood)

Psychological horror

A Tale of Two Sisters

Friday, 15 December 2017 at 8:00pm

Ji-woon Kim | South Korea 2003 | 115 min | Korean with English subtitles

Childhood nightmares spill into the adult world as two sisters, Su-mi (Im Soo-jung) and Su-yeon (Moon Geun-young), return home from hospital after recuperating from a mysterious illness and find themselves at odds with their wicked stepmother (Eun-Joo). She wants to play happy families, but the girls are desperate to expose her evil to their father and free the house from her deadly spell. Is it dream or reality? Nothing is what it seems in this bewildering journey through the looking glass of adolescence.

"A very tasty exercise in supernatural and psychological horror." (Film4)

"The atmosphere of mounting dread is matched by just-right performances, design and camerawork." (Time Out)

"Dark, dreadful, and utterly disturbing, it's a remarkable modern fairy story." (BBC Reviews)
